"Flags"

Painter and engraver, Michael ROBERTS lives and works in London and France. He exhibits internationally, teaches fine art at Bournemouth University of the Arts and received an MA from the Royal College of Art.

His main concerns are with narrative, surface, repetition, layering and color. Often, the beginning of the work is gleaned from observed situations, from books read, from mundane encounters, from the bric-a-brac of daily life. Once integrated, an evaluation process is put in place, full of uncertainties, which develops a working narrative until creation.

His concerns have focused on the human condition since the beginning of his practice.
